INDEX

TO

VOLUME SIXTH.

A

Artichoke, Jeruſalem, on the cultivation of, 47.

Agriculture, a much greater capital required for carrying it on now than formerly, 57. On the modern improvements in, as they affect the price of grain, 326.

Agricultural publications, review of, 69, 222.

Agricultural intelligence, leading articles of, 97, 241, 366, 491.

Annandale, letters of intelligence from, 104, 105, 242, 369, 503.

Aberdeen quarterly reports, 109, 242, 373, 507.

Address by the Publiſhers of the Magazine to the readers, 127.

Aſſeſſing, the impolicy of ſupporting the poor in that way, 139.

Ayrſhire, remarks on the huſbandry of, 271. Suggeſtions for its improvement, 273.

Angus quarterly reports, 371, 505.

Anſon, William, minutes in agriculture and planting by, reviewed, 468.

B

Banffſhire quarterly reports, 104, 371, 494.

Berwickſhire quarterly reports, 113, 246, 379, 505.

Banks, Sir Joſeph, review of his pamphlet on the diſeaſes of wheat, 222. Thought to underſtand the ſubject imperfectly, and that agriculturiſts will receive little benefit from his opinions, ib. Condemned for recommending mildewed wheat for ſeed, 227.

Bedford, Duke of, premiums offered by him for 1806, 406.

Botany, on the benefit which farmers would receive from the ſtudy of, 428.

Boars, on the feeding of, 431.

Braan, on the mode of curing it, 431.

Bounty on corn, its utility ſhewn, 432.

Brown, Robert, his ſtatement reſpecting cattle fed on clover and tares, 460.

C

Carrick, intelligence from, 111, 378, 494.

Canterbury, intelligence from, 256, 514.

Cattle, ſtatement of particulars reſpecting thoſe fed at Markle on clover and tares, 460.

Capons, how made in China, 46. Figures explanatory of the operation, ib.

Cropping, improved rotation of, on the rich ſoils of Eaſt-Lothian recommended, 55.

Cumberland, agricultural ſurvey, review of, 69.

Corn-laws, obſervations on the Glaſgow petition for amending them, 98. Letter from the Hon. Baron Hepburn concerning them, 149.

Corn-laws, outline view of their cauſes and effects, 152. Remarks on the alteration made on them in 1804, 203. The bounty conſidered to be unneceſſary, 206. Remarks on the opinion of Dr Smith and others concerning bounties, 432. Corſory thoughts on them, 439. Bill passed last session of Parliament, 458.

Corn, average prices of, in Great Britain, 124. Cutting it by threaving recommended, 466.

D

Dumfries quarterly reports, 105, 244, 506.

Dublin, spring shew of cattle, sheep, &c. at, 252.

Drainage, on the utility of a general law for regulating it in Scotland, 196.

Dung, on the right of the outgoing tenant therein, 217. Note by the Conductor thereupon, 218.

Dyer, Lord, letter from him to Sir John Sinclair concerning Spanish sheep, 301. Conversation between him and Brissonet, 302.

E

Essex quarterly reports, 255, 386, 513.

Edgerstone, remarks on the comparative trial of sheep at, 135.

Eddlestone Club, remarks on the proceedings of, 179. Letter from the secretary, 389.

Ewe, account of a prolific one, 191.

Enclosing, advantages of, 444.

F

Farm labour, comparative expence of, in 1790 and 1804, 9.

Findlater, Rev. Charles, letter from, concerning a bellows pump, 25. Note thereon by the Conductor, 25. On blasting of rocks, 464.

Feeding-byre, remarks on the one described by S. E. in vol. V. 40. The Eskmount byre considered to be more convenient than the Roxburghshire one, and why, ib. Reply by S. E. 494.

Farming schools, animadversions on the proposal for erecting them, 48.

Falkirk, intelligence from, 106, 247, 374, 496.

Fifeshire quarterly reports, 113, 375.

Fiars of grain in Scotland, crop 1804, 249.

Farm-yard, description of one adapted to turnip husbandry, 129, with a plate.

Friendly societies, their utility shewn, 145.

Fallow, summer, its utility demonstrated, 145.

Fourcroy, extracts from his book on vegetation, 291, 425.

Fuel in the Highlands, suggestions respecting, 363.

Farm, or Farms, for breeding grain, their utility shewn, 448.

G

Grain, the purest and most unblended varieties ought to be selected for seed, 1. The advantages of such selection described, ib. Quantities deponed to before the Sheriff of Haddington in making up the fiars for crop 1804, 219.

Grain, encouragement necessary to render it plentiful, 439. Advantages of selecting the best for seed described, 448. Farms for breeding new varieties recommended, 449.

Gray, Mr Andrew, description by him of a machine for sowing wheat in wet weather, 66.

Galloway, letter of intelligence from, 110.

Glasgow, intelligence from, 114, 247, 373, 508.

Gladstones, Mr, plough invented by, for water-furrowing land, 200.

Gates, on the use of cast metal for the hinges of, 331.

H

Headrick, Mr, letter from, on the analysis of limestone, 11. Answered by Sir George Mackenzie, 192. Reply thereto, 312.

Headrick, Mr, observations by him concerning magnesian limestone, 18. His thoughts concerning fuel in the Highlands, 363.

Haddington, Intelligence from, 115, 387.

Hepburn, Hon. Baron, letter from, on the corn laws, with an outline view of their causes and effects, 149.

Highland Society, their conduct with respect to ploughing matches examined, 187.

I

Jordan, George, description of a pump invented by him to work without a piston, 22.

Inverness-shire quarterly reports, 245, 371, 501.

Ireland, intelligence from the farming society there, 249.

Irrigation, plan of, practised by Mr Charles Stephen, 447.

K

Kent, letters of intelligence from a gentleman there, 116, 381.

Kincardine-shire quarterly reports, 125, 245, 378.

Kennedy, Robert, Esq. a short account of, 258. Elegy to his memory, 259.

L

Lothian, East, comparative expence of farm-labour there in 1790 and 1804, 7. Thoughts on the management of the great post-road in, 349.

Limestone, observations on the analysis of, 11, 26, 312. Magnesia therein not considered as pernicious to vegetation, 18.

Labour, considerations on the value of, in the Highlands of Scotland, 27. Sir George Mackenzie's opinion shewn to be erroneous, ib.

Land, mountain, information requested concerning the reclaiming of, 44.

Lothian, East, on the present state of farming there, compared to what it was in former times, 57.

Loudon, Mr, his observations on the formation and management of plantations reviewed, 77. His plan of modelling estates, 126. Strictures on the review of his publication, 238. Answer thereto, 356.

Lothian, Mid, quarterly reports, 112, 245, 372.

Lothian, East, quarterly reports, 114, 248, 379, 498.

London, letter from a farmer in the neighbourhood of, 116.

London, intelligence from, 121, 257, 387, 515.

London markets, state of, 123, 258.

Land, on its value in different districts, 273. Comparative statement betwixt its value in the counties of Wigton and Haddington, 278. On the benefit of enclosing it, 444.

Lime, thoughts on, by A. S., with some remarks on Sir George Mackenzie's letters, 316. On the cement of, 321. Best way of making mortar, ib.

Lincolnshire, intelligence from, 384, 511.

Leases, essay given in to the Eddlestone Club on the endurance of, 390.

M

Magnesian limestone, the question considered, whether it is pernicious to vegetation, 18.

Mackenzie, Sir George, letters from, on limestone, 26. On the value of labour, acknowledging his former error on that subject, 27. Premium offered by him on the storing of turnips, 103. His reply to Mr Headrick, 192. Answered by A. S. 316.

Machine, account of one for sowing wheat in wet weather, 66. with a plate.

Morayshire quarterly reports, 109, 243, 369.

Markets at Glasgow, state of, 114, 247, 373, 509.

Markets at London, state of, 123, 258.

Meteorology, Liverpool, 125.

Machinery, observations on different branches of, by Mr Farey junior, 201.

Mildew, observations concerning, 222. Thought to be different from blight, 223.

Muratore, strictures by, on the review of Mr Loudon's work.

Measures of capacity, thoughts on their equalization, 261.

Morayshire farmers' fund, rules and regulations of, 304.

Moss, improvements on, by John Wilkinson, Esq. 332. Ditto in the island of Colonsay, 339.

N

Norfolk quarterly reports, 117, 381.

Northumberland quarterly reports, 120, 383.

Notices to correspondents, 128, 260, 388, 516.

Nicol, Mr, Review of his treatise on forest planting, 230.

O

Oxen, observations by Lord Somerville on the working of, 4.

Obituary, death of Mr Kennedy, author of the letters signed Pol-Œconomicus, 258. Elegy to his memory, 259. Death of Mr Muckie, farmer, Ormiston 516

Ofier plantations belonging to Mr Sheriff of Captainhead, account of, 209.

P

Pump without a piston, account of one invented thirty years ago, 22. Said to be of older date, and not useful, 200.

Potatoes, on the injury done to them by worms, 25.

Parsley, recommended as a green crop for horses and cattle, 52.

Potato-bread, on the mode of making it, 57.

Pringle, Mr Andrew, his survey of Westmoreland reviewed, 73.

Plantations, observations on the formation of, &c. by Mr Loudon, reviewed, 77.

Property-tax, cursory observations thereupon, 101.

Perth, intelligence from, 108, 246.

Poor, impolicy of stenting or assessing for the support of, 139.

Ploughing matches, thoughts concerning the utility of, 178. Note by the Conductor thereupon, 180.

Plough, description of one for water furrowing land, 200. Description of the Chinese plough, with a figure, 215. Considered to be advantageous, 441.

Premiums offered by Sir George Mackenzie for storing turnips, 103. By the Publishers, for an essay on the culture of wheat, 368. By the Duke of Bedford, 406. And again by Sir G. Mackenzie, 492.

Paper circulation in Great Britain, essay upon the too great extent of, 451. Legislative interference to restrict it recommended, 452. Instances of its abuse given, ib.

Plantations (wood) at New Abbey, account of, 453.

Q

Queries concerning reclaiming mountain land, 44. On different branches of husbandry, 53. Concerning a machine for hummeling barley, 68. Concerning feeding cattle on turnips, 442.

R

Rent, comparative statement concerning, in 1796 & 1804, 8.

Reviews of Cumberland Survey, 69. Of Westmoreland, 73. Of Loudon on the formation of plantations, &c. 77. Of Lord Somerville on sheep, wool, ploughs, and oxen, 88. Of Sir Joseph Banks on the diseases of wheat, 222. Of Nicol's practical planter, 230. Of pamphlets on the property tax, 237. Of Amos on agriculture and planting, 468. Of Lord Selkirk on Highland emigration 485

Rossshire, letter of intelligence from a gentleman there, 103.

Rossshire quarterly reports, 242, 377, 508.

Romney Marsh, account of a farm in, 208.

Rye-grass seed, annual, difficult to be distinguished from perennial, 268.

Rural economy, thoughts on various subjects of, 280. The culture of coleseed not advantageous in Scotland, 281. Tares, yams, cabbages, and kail, advantageous, ib. Land ought to be fully seeded, 283.

Roads, thoughts on the management of those in East Lothian, 349.

Rocks, a new method of blasting them with gun-powder, 464.

S

Seed-corn, the propriety of selecting and cultivating new varieties thereof pointed out, 1. Improvement in this branch of husbandry of as much importance as that exercised with regard to live stock; 3. An establishment for breeding it a desideratum in husbandry, 448.

Somerville, Lord, letter from, on the working of oxen, 4. Review of his work on sheep, oxen, &c. 88.

Sheep, on the Bamburgh and Leicester breeds, 45. On the comparative trial at Edgerstone, 135. On smearing them, 354. Recipe for curing the foot-rot in them, 441. On the nature of the soil proper for rearing them, 453.

Sainfoin, on the culture of, 190.

Salton farmers' club, premiums offered by, 199.

Sheriff, Mr, his other plantations described, 209.

Sheep, Spanish, letter from Lord Dacr concerning, 301.

Stirling turnips, essay on, to which Sir G. Mackenzie's premium was adjudged, 340. Another essay on the same subject, 406.

Smith, Dr, his opinion concerning the corn laws investigated, 432.

Stephen, Mr Charles, his plan of irrigation, 447.

Stewart, Captain, account of his plantations at New Abbey, 454.

Soiling of cattle on clover and tares, account of, 460.

Thrashing machines, on the working of, 50. Light shafts said to be preferable to traces, 52. On the power of horses in drawing them, 194. Further thoughts on the same subject. 443.

Turnips, on the benefit of rolling them when infested by the black caterpillar, 65. On steeping the seed, 198. On the most profitable mode of consuming the crop, 263. On ſaving it from caterpillars, 270.

Turnip farm, deſcription of a yard adapted to it, 129.; with a plate.
Turnip huſbandry, Letter I. ſketch of, as practiſed in Berwickſhire, 156. Letter II. on the moſt convenient and profitable mode of conſuming the crop, 263. Rotation afterwards, 265.
Turnips, eſſay on ſtoring of, which gained Sir G. Mackenzie's premium, 340. Further thoughts concerning the caterpillar, 352. another eſſay on ſtoring, 408.
Tweeddale quarterly report, 376.
Threaving, the cutting of corn in this way recommended, 466.

V

Vegetation, on the philoſophy of, 285. Extracts from Fourcroy, 291, 425.

W

Worms, on the injury done by them to potatoes, 25. Opinion of the conductor, that ſummer fallow is the only effectual remedy, ib.
Wheat land, method of ſowing it in wet ſeaſons, 66.
Weſtmoreland, agricultural ſurvey, review of, 73.
Wales, intelligence from, 123, 255, 512.
Wheat, on the mildew of, 190. Sir Joſeph Banks's opinion inveſtigated, 222.
Weights and meaſures, thoughts on the equalization of, 261.
Wool, Spaniſh, letter from Lord Daer to Sir J. Sinclair concerning, 301.
Wilkinſon, John, Eſq. account of his moſs improvements, 332.
Wigtonſhire quarterly report, 368.
Woburn ſheep-ſhearing, ſome particulars concerning, 380. Premiums offered for 1806, 406.
Wakefield, intelligence from, 383.
Wiltſhire, intelligence from, 385.
Water meadows, hints on the formation of, 447.

Y

Yorkſhire quarterly reports, 120, 256, 382, 513.

END OF VOLUME SIXTH.

Printed by D. Willison, Craig's Close, Edinburgh.

Q440.c.17.6
713
XXV. 26 b

THE FARMER'S MAGAZINE:

A

PERIODICAL WORK,

EXCLUSIVELY DEVOTED TO

AGRICULTURE,

AND

RURAL AFFAIRS:

1805.

Ye gen'rous Britons, venerate the PLOUGH,
And o'er your hills, and long withdrawing vales,
Let Autumn spread her treasures to the Sun. THOMSON.

VOL. VI.

Edinburgh:

PRINTED BY D. WILLISON, CRAIG'S CLOSE,
FOR ARCH. CONSTABLE & CO. EDINBURGH;
SOLD BY LONGMAN HURST REES & ORME, LONDON; J. ARCHER, DUBLIN; BRASH & REID, GLASGOW; AND THE PRINCIPAL BOOKSELLERS IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

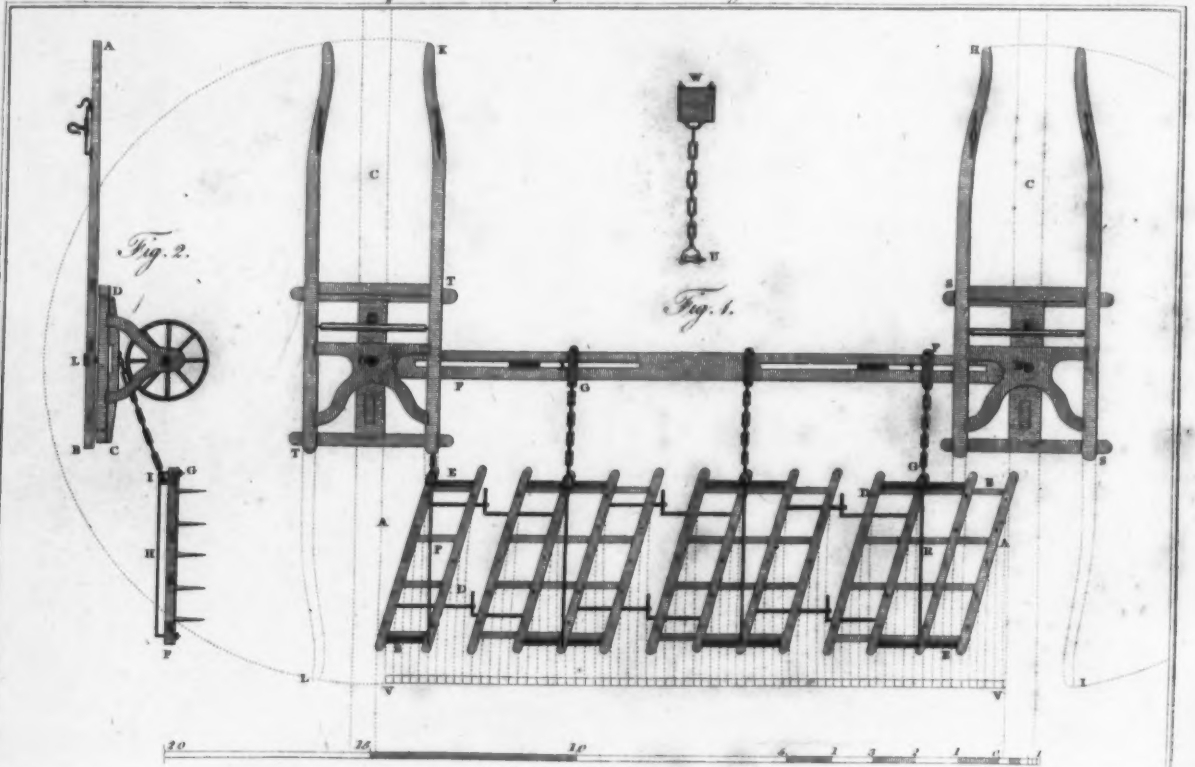
1805.


Mr. Gray's Machine for Harrowing Wet Land.